

5 media giants already control the vast majority of what we hear and see. Yet the airwaves supposedly belong to the public. Any further rulings that allow more consolidation will only make this situation worse. In fact, it is vital to reduce the number of outlets that any one corporate group can control.

The FCC is supposed to be the watchdog and protector of the public interest. I urge you to take up this challenge and make rules that favor the public over corporate interests.